

Plato is the great philosopher of ancient Greece.

The Tibetan is a Master of Wisdom
with a vast body of work of 19 books – dictated telepathically to the English-born Alice Ann Bailey – published between 1919 and 1949.

Esoteric means inner/spiritual,
that everything has an inner/spiritual cause.

The book's comparative analysis of the writings of Plato
and The Tibetan is constructed by quotations.

The book:

Shows an extensive esoteric side of Plato, including reincarnation.

Clarifies the subjects of consciousness and Trinity in Plato.
Presents something new in Plato, involution and evolution.

Specifies something debated, Plato's dialectics,
as being meditation.

There is (probably) no similar study of Plato and The Tibetan.
